Sidewalks in Brilliant Hues Recall Old Paving Controversy

The almost forgotten controversy over plain or fancy colored pavements in Carmel came to life again this week in a minor way with the completion of a block of sidewalks on Monte Verde street in diverse tintings. Like Joseph's coat —or was it Jacob's?—of many colors, the space between property line and curbing, in a jig-saw puzzle pattern, fairly leaped into the public notice. It was a veritable rainbow.

Not all the criticism of this innovation of concrete in place of dirt walks in a residence district is against its brilliant hues. Those who have held dreams of winding paths of flags or sand beside the narrowed streets are deploring this rude awakening. They fear that this beginning points a disastrous end to their hopes. However, it is pointed out that very few blocks in the entire city lend themselves naturally to such treatment as this particular block has received, and that the sunset effect of gorgeous coloring will be localized. Besides, they say, it will fade.

The work has been done by the property owners in colloboration with the city council and the unemployment relief committee. Abutting owners are paying the costs of material, and labor is furnished as an employment measure. Who determined the color scheme has not been as yet discovered.

Councilman John B. Jordan, who was the principal opponent of the plan of colored pavements for Carmel's down-town streets, says that he had no hand in mixing the colors of the sidewalk so near his home place. "It looks pretty good to me," he said, "and will take on a more subdued tone with age. But there's a vast difference between a sidewalk and a street."

Councilman Heron, who when he was mayor led the fight for tinted streets, finds the sidewalk artistic. "And just the thing for Carmel," he adds.

And Mayor John Catlin, busy at his forge, said it was grand.

"I always thought Carmel should have colored pavement," he explained. "Now that we have it we should be proud of it."

The placing of the first strip of colored pavement comes as an anti-climax to the now famous controversy that raged in Carmel two years ago and divided not only the city council but the entire village.

Suddenly, when the fight was at its hottest, the entire thing was dropped and forgotten until now when the bright sidewalk on Monte Verde street greeted the eyes of residents.

Final Plans Made for May Garden Fete of Woman's Club

As a closing activity for the season, the Garden Section of the Woman's Club will stage a May Garden Fete on May 13th from 12 o'clock until three in the garden of Mrs. I. N. Ford, Eleventh Avenue, corner of Junipero Street. All proceeds of the affair will be given to the Employment Fund. The public is cordially invited.

A gate tax of 25¢ will be charged for admittance, but there will be no extra charge, except for the articles on sale.

All those attending are asked to bring a box lunch, as no luncheon will be served at the Garden Fete. Seats and tables will be available for the picnic lunches. Hot coffee will be served free to all, but it is suggested that everyone bring their own cups and spoons.

There will be a program of dancing in the afternoon, free to all. At one-thirty Miss Ruth Austin's pupils will present a ballet, the children to be in costume, and dance under the oaks. At two-thirty Miss Elsa Naess' pupils will give three Grecian dances, the children also in costume. These two programs alone should make it well worth while attending the Garden Party.

Members of the Club at large are helping the Garden Section at the various booths. The Plant Booth will be in charge of Miss Anne Grant, with various members of the Garden Section to assist her. Mrs. A. W. Wheldon will be in charge of the coffee making. Fruit punch will be sold at 5¢ a glass at another booth, which will be under the charge of Mrs. Vera Peck Millis. There will be a home-candy booth, Mrs. J. L. Cockburn being in charge and Mrs. J. E. Abernethy assisting her. Mrs. C. J. Ryland will have charge of the home-made cake and cookie booth, Mrs. E. D. Titus assisting her. Members of the Girl Scouts will come in fancy costumes and help in various ways. Mrs. A. W. Wheldon will make little French bouquets which will be on sale.

All articles at the booths will be at very reasonable prices. Garden enthusiasts have this chance to replenish their gardens at small cost. Housewives can pick out a delicious home-made cake, cookies, or candy to take home. Those who like fruit punch can get a glass for only 5¢, this punch being made from an especially delicious recipe.

Visitors are asked to come in by the entrance gate on 11th Avenue, between Mission and Junipero Streets. As the parking space on this block is not very good, those coming in cars would be wise to park them along Mission Street, only a half block away, where the facilities are better. The Garden Fete will not begin until twelve noon.

As the whole object of this Fete is to raise money for the Employment Fund, the Committee make an appeal to the public at large not only to attend, but to send donations for the booths. We want plants—any kind—large or small, seedlings, bulbs, tubers—in fact, anything that will grow in a garden. Put plants in containers and clearly mark with name, and, if possible, color. If uncertain of the colors, mark "mixed." The price will be determined by the Plant Booth Committee. A half-dozen or a dozen little plants to one container is a good number. But send in what you have even if only a few. We shall be grateful for anything.

Donations of cakes, cookies, or candy will be gratefully received for the Cake and Candy Booth, large cakes, or small, iced or plain, and any kind of candy.

Donations of plants, cake, or candy should be sent to Miss Agnes Ford, Eleventh and Junipero Street, on Friday, the day before the Garden Fete. If anyone has a donation to send, but no car to deliver it, please telephone to 844-J prior to Friday, and the committee will fetch it.

Please make a mark on your calendar for Saturday, May 13th.

Commission Discusses Plan For Zoning New Highway

Tentative plans for zoning the Carmel-San Simeon highway against the encroachment of commercialism are being studied this week as the result of a meeting held Saturday by members of the Monterey county planning commission.

The proposed zoning plan came under discussion at a meeting held at Pfeiffer's resort, down the coast. Only a tentative planning map has so far been drafted, it is understood and the commission is waiting for a further investigation of conditions on the new highway before any definite action is taken.

Under the plan now being studied by the commission, certain areas will be allowed for the operation of commercial projects, such as service stations and highway restaurants. It is the aim of the commission to prohibit the establishment of any billboards the full length of the highway.

The commission is scheduled to meet again some time next month for further discussion of the proposed zoning. At the session held at Pfeiffer's resort, members of the commission who were present included Carmel Martin, chairman; George Dudley, H. E. Baltz, E. P. Pfinge, and Howard Cozzens. Over half a dozen owners of land on the Big Sur met with the commission.

Elite Ready For Lady Godiva's Entrance At Quatr'z Arts Ball

Coat tails will fly, aluminum blonde wigs will shine and bizarre costumes will reveal feminine charms, when Carmel artists paint the town red tomorrow night for the first Quatr'z Arts ball ever staged on the Monterey peninsula.

From all parts of the state, artists, authors, sculptors, actors, social lions and others, will be on hand tomorrow night for the long heralded affair that will continue until the early hours of the morning.

With a limited list of guests invited to take in the ball, much secrecy surrounds the entertainment that will be staged on the floor of the Bali room at Del Monte. This much is certain, however, the program will be one of the most varied and dazzling that has been staged in years.

The ball, the committee members say, will be anything but formal. It will be Bohemia at play—singing—dancing and whispering. The entire lower floor of Del Monte will be roped off and devoted to guests at the ball.

In addition to the regular ball, there will be private parties that will precede the program. The ball starts at ten o'clock, admittance by invitation only.

"There is only one purpose behind the ball," Mayor John Catlin, one of the members of the committee said today, "that purpose is to have a good time. It will be a real gay, Parisian affair and we believe that everyone that has been invited to come will have a splendid time."

Interspersed with the dancing program, there will be an elaborate floor show with dancing girls and acts especially written for the ball. And then there will be informal skits given by noted moving picture actors and others who are planning to come. Lew Cody will act as master of ceremonies.

Carmel Woman Hurt In Automobile Crash

Mrs. Florence Ammerman, wife of Fred Ammerman, local grocery store employee, was this week recovering from injuries suffered Saturday night in an automobile accident just outside the Carmel city limits.

Mrs. Ammerman who was driving her car was sideswiped by a machine operated by Tlaridel Maihilid, Filipino houseboy. Police officer Charles Guth and State Patrolman Louis Trenner investigated the crash.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE CHAIRMAN OF THE PROGRAM COMMITTEE

It is gratifying to me personally, as it must be to every true citizen, to see that the leaders and plain citizens of all three communities of Monterey Peninsula have given their loyal support to this outstanding celebration of President's Day. The event will be photographed on land and from the air, and copies of the photos together with news stories from local papers will be sent to Roosevelt, so that he may know of our zeal and loyalty here.
Every man, woman, and child should turn out for this fine program. It will be entertaining, interesting, and inspiring.
Let's all be there,

(Signed)
WILLIAM SORENSEN

The New President

In the present plight of the nation partisanship is forgotten. All feel that they are in the same boat and that the captain must be upheld. At least in the early months of his term, the new President will be able to command what he wills. If his task is huge, Mr. Roosevelt at least will be free to handle it in his own way, with the backing of the whole nation.
There is, in addition, we are confident, an unusual warmth of good will toward Mr. Roosevelt. This feeling flows from various causes. All center in his personality. The President likes people and they like him. He is a gallant figure, a true Roosevelt in his charm and gusto. He takes time to enjoy life, and, on the whole—save for one cruel stroke of fate—life has been kind to him. He is lucky—and how the country needs luck!
The whole country looks to Mr. Roosevelt with hope and pride. May his smile be the harbinger of calmer seas and sunnier skies!

EXPRESSIONS OF CONFIDENCE BY LOCAL BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL PEOPLE

Dolores Products Company
We have a great leader. In our opinion he will lead us to prosperity. Republicans and Democrats are behind his as one unit.

Emmett McMenamin
A spirit of confidence and courage similar to that by which our Nation was given life grips the American people today. Such spiritual effort has never failed in a National crisis—it cannot fail now.

Chandler Stewart
Roosevelt, the Skipper, will lead us through the turbulent waters of Fear and Distress to the tranquil sea of normalcy.

San Xavier Canning Company
President Roosevelt's handling of the bank-crisis has excited my admiration. His leadership is encouraging.

George McDonald (Monterey Councilman)
We are deeply grateful for the courageous leadership of President Roosevelt and we shall at all times support his policies, right or wrong, and carry on with courage instead of fear.

R. M. Dorton
This is an extremely critical period in American history, and political partisanship should play no part in the momentous days ahead of us. Stand by the President.

J.W.Millington (Monterey Councilman)
We have the fullest confidence in the President and his constructive policies. President Roosevelt has made good from the start. His actions prove his strength.

Carmel Martin (Monterey Councilman)
I know the people are more optimistic and have more faith now than they have had for over five years and we all hope and pray that with his leadership we will soon be back on the road to prosperity.

Grove Laundry (Mr. Thompson)
The American people look to President Roosevelt as the ancient Israelites looked to Moses to lead them out of the wilderness.

Frederick Buck
In the history of our country we never have met defeat. The rungs of the ladder on which we have climbed to victory have been 'confidence' in our government.

Ranald Cockburn
President Roosevelt having shown such a courageous spirit in the handling of the banking situation, we can all take heart and do business with confidence and success.

E. E. Littlefield (Monterey Councilman)
For his foresight, clearness of thought, courageous action and earnest appeal, our President deserves the confidence and admiration of every citizen.

Jack Lloyd (Brewers Distributing Co.)
We all know the immense strides forward made already by the Roosevelt administration. Let's all get out, have a good time, and show our fealty as well. Be there Sunday! No fooling!

APOLOGIES TO THE CITIZENS WE WERE UNABLE TO INTERVIEW FOR THIS PAGE

Gus Lights Cigar, Ends Self-Imposed Abstinence "Cure"

Gus, Carmel's police chief, was once again smiling.

A self-imposed ban on smoking which he religiously followed for the past few months, ended this week when some friend presented him with an expensive box of cigars as a gift.

Gus went on the smoke wagon as part of a New Year's resolution.

"No more smoking," he told his wife, "at least not for a while."

In front of his desk, he kept a cigar at which he winked, each time he felt like smoking. He gave away most of his Christmas cigars and proceeded to lead a life of self abstinence as far as smoking was concerned.

Then this week, a friend of many years standing, presented him with a box of expensive cigars.

"There's nothing like a good cigar," he said, smelled the fragrance of the tobacco, bit the end of one of the cigars and lit it.

For that's the way of New Year's resolutions.

Ball Player Injured During Abalone Game

Bob Stowell, well known Carmel resident, was today recovering from serious injuries suffered Sunday when he slipped and fell during a hectic inning of the Abalone baseball league game.

Stowell was taken to the Carmel hospital where he is under treatment for a broken leg. He is being attended by Dr. David Matzke who said that Stowell suffered an unusual serious break.

The casualty Sunday was the first of this season's games. Similar accidents have marred the games during past years and a pair of crutches owned by the league are used almost every season by some one of the ball players.

Plans Underway For Another Street Fair

Another street fair is being planned for Carmel, it was disclosed this week.

Members of the Carmel Employment Commission have definitely decided to stage a street fair similar in some respects to the one given last year, which netted over $1400.

According to James L. Cockburn, a member of the commission, the coming fair will be filled with all types of new stunts and booths. It will resemble last year's fair in name only, Cockburn said.

No definite date for the event has been set, pending a further discussion. It was indicated, however, that it may be staged sometime during the week of July fourth.

Mrs. Frances Daniels heads the committee that will have charge of the event.

Boy Injured While Crossing Dolores Street

Spencer Kern, 13-year-old Carmel school boy was recovering today from injuries suffered yesterday when he was struck down while crossing Dolores street.

According to Officer Charles Guth who witnessed the accident, Kern had gotten out of his father's car and dashed across the street in front of a car driven by Markham Johnson, also of Carmel. The boy was knocked down and rushed to the Carmel hospital where he was treated by Dr. David Matzke.

No charge was placed against the driver of the car by police who investigated the accident.

Publicity Campaign Is Mapped Out Here

Carmel is in the tourist business but does not realize it, Charles A. Horrworth, field secretary of the All Year Club of Southern California, told the audience who gathered to hear him Monday afternoon at the Theatre of the Golden Bough, kindly donated for the purpose by the Monterey Theatre company.

Horrworth, together with M. C. Hall, general manager of the California Mission Trails Association, presented plans for tieing in the coming year's program of the Mission Trails group with the $350,000 national advertising campaign of the All Year Club in order to bring more tourists to the eight coast counties comprising the Mission Trails, and to prolong the average length of stay in each community.

Urging that a practical and adequate county advertising budget provide the means for carrying out this important work, Horrworth pointed out the successive steps whereby desirable tourists may be brought to this county in greatly increased numbers. The All Year Club brings them to Southern California, and it is up to the Mission Trails counties to draw them north via the Coast Route, and hold them as long as possible in the respective counties, if they wish to share in the benefits of this, California's third largest industry, he declared.

New Officers To Be Named by Local Club

New officers for the coming year will be elected at the annual meeting of the Carmel Woman's club to be held next Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Girl Scout House. Mrs. Emma Rendtorff is the outgoing president.

An interesting program has been planned as part of the meeting. Reminiscences of early Carmel will be given by Mrs. Rose DeYoe, Mrs. Willis G. White, Miss Josephine Culbertson and Mrs. Valentine Mott Porter.

NEWS BRIEFS

John Steven McGroarty of Tejunga, best known as the author of the Mission Play, given for many years at San Grabriel, has been selected by the state legislature as poet laureate of California, succeeding the late Dr. Henry Meade Bland of San Jose. There were four candidates for the office, the others being Milton S. Ray of San Francisco, Charles Keeler of Berkeley and Ray Walter James of Covina.

Remodeling began this week at Leidig's grocery following out plans to turn the market into an open air store. Construction will take about six weeks at the end of which time there will be a large opening of the store.

"Carmel Furniture" Latest Of Holman's Furnishings

Making its debut on the Peninsula, "Carmel Furniture," latest furniture importation at Holman's is fast taking precedence over other types as home-makers see the new style.

One wishing not to have too much of the modernistic furnishings, the "Carmel Furniture" hits a happy medium, and is just the type of fitting for the home. Its construction is of light wood, in some cases patterned after antiques finished with natural shades of stain, and painted with bright color designs. This furniture is steel re-enforced throughout.

At Holman's one can see complete rooms furnished with this new furniture, with pictures and crockery to match.

Captain and Mrs. Blamer accompanied by Miss Agnes Palmer left Thursday for Oregon. The Blamers intend to stay until the fall, but Miss Palmer will return in about a month.

Mildred Wright Violin Recital

By Hal Garrott

Mildred Sahlstrom Wright waited a long time before making a debut in Carmel. When at last she did appear she won her audience completely. Never have I listened to a more enjoyable violin program in the Denny-Watrous Gallery.

Mildred Wright's playing reveals a variety of interesting qualities. After breaking the ice and warming up on the Handel A Major Sonata, the soloist sailed vigorously into the colorful Greig No. II G Minor Sonata with a large brilliant tone that, however, bordered on shrillness. The performer, cool, poised, master of the situation, tossed off technical passages with no apparent effort, and with nice precision.

Mertianna Towler at the piano played too softly for sonatas where both instruments rank equally, but she followed accurately, providing a sympathetic, if somewhat shadowy background.

After the intermission Miss Wright seemed to have gauged to a nicety the acoustics of the little gallery. At any rate in the Cyril Scott Tallahassee Suite and the numbers that followed, she achieved a tone of surprising warmth and beauty, ranging from pianissimo to a broad, full-toned eloquence equal to that of leading concert violinists. No wonder the large audience was stirred.

As it progressed the generous, well planned program seemed to inspire more and more spontaneous and vital performance, until, toward the end the soloist held her listeners in the hollow of her hand. It was a happy faced crowd that filed out after the last encore. Mildred Sahlstrom Wright will remain a grateful memory in our hearts—until she chooses to favor us again.

Kuster To Bring Play For Local Production

Once again, after an absence of a year, Edward G. Kuster will produce a series of plays in Carmel, starting next June with "Sister Benvenuta," a new version of "The Nursery Maid of Heaven."

Eight years ago, this play was given at the Theatre of the Golden Bough and won national comment as a forward step in the creative American theatre. The recent San Francisco production, staged by Kuster, was so well acclaimed by dramatic critics that a decision was made to bring it to Carmel.

Kuster, who was back in Carmel from San Francisco for a few days, revealed that he had definite plans for future theatrical productions to be staged here during the next twelve months. One of the other important plays planned by him will be a gala presentation of Martin Flavin's powerful new play, "Amaco." The play will be directed by Kuster and staged at the Carmel Community Playhouse.

"Amaco" which will have its western premiere in Carmel, calls for a cast of eighteen male actors, but no women.

Henry Cowell In Recital At Gallery

About a year ago Henry Cowell was announced in recital with his Rhythmicon, a new instrument which he had just invented and which made possible the correct playing of cross rhythms and in a number of ways extended musical resources beyond the bounds of anything hitherto possible.

Feeling the need of a way to make duplicates of some of the priceless records of primitive music which he had access to in Berlin and in a few of the private collections in New York, in typical Cowell manner, he invented a new instrument by means of which any record may be duplicated. Mr. Cowell was then given permission by Dr. Hornbussle of the University of Berlin to make duplicates from the rare collection of the University. To many of these records—for instance one of music by African pygmies—Cowell had listened over three hundred times, and it was a great thrill to be able to at last duplicate it and have it for his own.

Henry Cowell now has a very rare collection of his own records, and he has brought over seventy of these west with him. On Saturday evening, May 6, the Denny-Watrous Gallery will present him in the first of a series of evenings in which the public will be given an opportunity to hear some of these records and to hear Cowell's findings on their musical systems under the Guggenheim Foudation.

Biblical Drama At Community Church

On Sunday evening next at 6:30, the Baraca Boys' Club of the Pacific Grove Congregational Church will present a Bible drama entitled "Barabbas" in the schoolroom of the Carmel Community Church. The boys will be assisted by Miss Lorraine Seguin of Del Monte. The scene of the play is at Jerusalem two days after the crucifixion. All young people with their parents and friends are cordially invited. An offering for the local Young Peoples' work will be taken.

The usual service of Morning Worship will take place at 11:00 o'clock. Subject of sermon: "Saint Paul and a Theme from the Domestic Symphony."

Frank Wickman And Piano Technic Tonight

At various times since the invention of the piano there have been world figures in piano technic, to whom students of the piano have turned for that "release of power," and that effortless speed, facility and tone which great virtuosos have always had. Tobias Matthay is such an one, and during the last few years New York has hailed Frank Wickman as a foremost figure in the technic of the piano.

Such excellent pianists as Margaret Tilly have gone to Wickman to perfect a craft which has already been adequate to hold concert audiences in London and New York.

Frank Wickman will discuss his theory of piano technic tonight in the Denny-Watrous Gallery. Margaret Tilly will illustrate his points at the piano. Invitations to the event may be secured from the Gallery. There will be no admission charge.

The Story That Sells

On Monday evening, May 8, Bruce Fox, successful short story writer, a familiar figure in Eastern editorial offices, publisher, and for the last two years known to many a writer as the critic who has given them the help that has turned a rejected manuscript into one that sold, will give a talk on successful short story writing in the Denny-Watrous Gallery. There will be no admission charge Invitations may be had through the Gallery,

Play To Be Given At High School Tonight

A three act romantic melodrama "The Black Flamingo," will be presented tonight at the Monterey high school auditorium.

The production is under the direction of Miss Ann Norwood, dramatic teacher, and Peggy Hoffman of Carmel, student director. The performance is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

Carmel To Take Part In Peninsula Program

Carmel will take an official part in the celebration of President's Day next Sunday afternoon in Monterey, according to the plans now being completed.

Children from Sunset School, local members of the American Legion post and city officials will all be on hand at the Monterey ball park for the celebration and addresses. Frank Sheridan will act as master of ceremonies and S. F. B. Morse will deliver the principal address.

Funeral Services Held For J. W. Ham, Local Resident

Funeral services were held this week for John W. Ham, a resident in Carmel for several years, who died suddenly Friday night at his home here.

Ham is believed to have died from a heart attack. The funeral services were in charge of Paul's mortuary in Pacific Grove.

The Carmel Pine Cone SUPPLEMENT

Public School Week To End Tomorrow With Colorful Play

Observance of public school week will come to a dramatic climax tomorrow afternoon in Carmel with the presentation of a colorful pageant depicting scenes of European history.

Under the direction of Anna Marie Baer, the pageant is being given especially for principals of Monterey county who meet at Sunset school on that day. A cordial invitation for local residents to attend, however, has been extended. The pageant begins at 2 o'clock.

On Tuesday night, an elaborate program for the public was given in the new auditorium with some 500 parents and their friends present.

Speakers on the program included Charles Watson, president of the Carmel Masonic club and O. W. Bardarson, principal at Sunset School. Watson explained the reason why Masonic organizations throughout the state sponsored public school week. Bardarson briefly discussed the relation of the school and the community.

As a featured part of the program, many musical numbers were played by the school orchestra and sung by groups of boys and girls. The rendition of the Volga Boatmen and the Cradle Song won considerable comment from the audience who enthusiastically applauded.

Rooms at the school have been visited all through the week and inspection made of penmanship, spelling, composition and other work done by the pupils.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wheldon had as their guest for a few days, Mrs. Annie Hobday of Pasadena.

Don't Bite! Gus Warns–Hold On To Gold Fillings

Carmel residents should hold tight to their gold teeth fillings and not attempt to sell them.

At least that was the warning issued today by Police Chief Gus Englund against a band of "old gold racketeers" who have been operating in various parts of the peninsula.

According to Chief Englund, the gang takes advantage of depression conditions and is victimizing dozens of people, causing the loss of hundreds of dollars worth of gold.

Chief Englund disclosed that there have been a number of people calling from house to house recently, offering to purchase old gold. At each house they urge "hard up" residents to convert jewelry and old gold into cash.

This solicitation, Chief Englund said, is not illegal in itself. The golden fleecing comes in when the prospective purchaser takes the gold on the excuse that it has to be assayed. Once it is in his possession, he never returns.

In short, Chief Englund warns, old gold is better than no gold at all. Or perhaps, it's just a matter of going off the gold standard.

Support The President Celebration Sunday

Plans for a President's Day celebration to be held at the Monterey Ball Park Sunday were drawn up at a meeting of prominent Peninsula merchants and members of the Support the President Club at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday.

At this meeting committees were chosen to complete the program and select speakers for the day.

It was decided that there would be a parade with the Infantry and a number of local organizations in the line. Besides the Army bands, the American Legion drum corps will be on hand for the event.

Frank Sheridan, Carmel actor, was chosen at this meeting to be the master of ceremonies and to head the committee to complete program plans. This celebration, both religious and civic, will be open to the public and will start at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Ernest Perkins New Owner of Hardware Store

Ernest Perkins of San Francisco is now the owner and manager of the Carmel Hardware store on Ocean avenue. During the week just past Perkins bought out Ernest Bixler, well known Carmel builder. Perkins intends to make his home here and to put his store up in the front ranks as a hardware store with the most modern and best quality merchandise.

Before coming to Carmel Perkins attended school in San Francisco and later spent some time at an industrial college in that city.

"Cavalcade" To Play At Local Theatre

"Cavalcade" the great Noel Coward drama produced by Fox, comes to the Carmel Theatre, Friday and Saturday, April 28 and 29. It arrives fresh from the most positive triumph ever accorded a motion picture. Wherever it has played it has achieved the highest praise and the most avid enthusiasm from both critics and from motion picture audiences.

"Cavalcade" depicts the emotions of two humans, one a mother and the other a father, amid the turbulent events of three decades. It has been hailed as the most touching, most stirring, most magnificent drama ever seen on the screen.

Diana Wynward and Clive Brook have the principle roles with a supporting cast of 50 others.

Bones Crack as Abalones Battle in Exciting Games

By Winsor Josselyn

About this time of an Abalone baseball series it stops being a game and becomes a battle. Ask Bob Stowell. His Giants not only lost a 3 to 2 game to the Pilots, but he wound up in Carmel Hospital with a broken leg. He joins the very exclusive few entitled to use the Abalone Fracture Crutches.

Before telling more of this spectacular accident, let us summarize last Sunday by saying that Country Club won from Manzanita by something like 16 to 7 (the excitement numbed the figures) and then came a forfeit-exhibition game in which Del Monte took on an assembled stars and won 12 to 2. Then the very swell Pilot-Giant brawl.

Which gives present standings:

Community Section

	Won	Lost	P'ct.
Pilots	8	1	.888
Giants	5	4	.555
Shamrocks	3	6	.333
Tigers	2	7	.222
Club Section
Country Club	5	2	.715
Del Monte	5	3	.725
Manzanita	4	5	.444
Polo Club (Old Mty.)	2	6	.250

In the Country Club-Manzanita tiff the latter team got four runs just like that. But the Country Club clouters came back and got five runs just like that, too. And from then on it was a whack of bat on ball, of thudding feet, of cries—mostly when Manzanita did strange things in the field when the ball was lammed out there. Dick Catlett, as hard-working pitcher going through his first game in that thankless spot, had every right to sue his team for non-support.

The winners had more breaks than a dropped dish, and to mention a few let us say that Ray Brownell scored a home run, and Frank Townsend proved to be a one-man team in center field, and Fred Godwin pitched and pounded his Club team onward and upward.

In the Del Monte and All Star game, Charlie Nelson of the former team connected with one that sailed out and over the cars parked on the upper roadway. While markers have not been poured in concrete to show where other sluggers have put "the longest on record," we believe this should rank right among 'em.

To get to the last game, any Abalone League conflict that ends 3 to 2 is worth sending the Pine Cone home about. There you had two teams fighting for league leadership, and both with players who could step into the big leagues any day if they weren't more artistic than commercial. Why single out stars when the whole lineup is just full of twinkles? So we get on to Bob Stowell's crack-up.

In the sixth he got a triple. Then a grounder sent him winging homeward to collide with Pilot catcher Bancroft. In the impact he went up in the air and entirely missed the plate. Frantic team-mates, mistaking his writhing in the dust for a bit of well-earned breathlessness, shouted, "Touch that base!" Which hapless Bob did by rolling over and crawling to it. Boy—that's giving until it hurts!

Dr. Dave Matzke tossed aside glove and ball and got to work on him, and finally an X-ray at the Carmel Hospital showed a fracture of a leg bone near the knee, and for some time hence he will receive Abalonies in good standing at the regular visiting hours. Bob is a veteran of two wars with wound stripes in each—World and Abalone—and is just too tough to kill.

Game next Sunday will be the Country Club and Del Monte at a stated 2:45, but you had better come early and get settled in your favorite armchair in good season. This game will not need a hospital nearly so much as a jail afterward and that's always very pretty from the safety of the sidelines.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Oren of Oakland are spending several days of their honeymoon in Carmel, stopping at Hotel La Ribera.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dittmore of San Francisco have moved to Carmel for the summer months with their two sons. They are occupying Chula Vista at 5th and Monte Verde.

Pipe Organ Recital At All Saints Church

The first pipe organ recital ever held in Carmel will be on Sunday the 30th, a vesper service at eight at All Saints Church on Monte Verde. The new Moeller organ will be played by Edward Cadoret Hopkins of St. John's Chapel, Del Monte.

Assisting Mr. Hopkins with vocal solos will be Samuel Ethridge and Master William Van Ess, boy soloist of St. John's Chapel. The new All Saints vested choir of twenty voices, mostly boys, will be one of the features of this rare evening of music. No admission will be charged, but a special offering will be made for the support of the choir.

Mr. Hopkins is one of the best known organists of the Coast, having been in charge of the organ and choir of churches in San Francisco and Los Angeles. This recital is in the nature of a tribute to his contribution to the music life of the Peninsula in general and to All Saints Church in particular. For many months he has generously given of his time and experience in the training of the boy choir, and also the proper installation of the new organ in All Saints.

STATE WILL CONTROL LICENSES

The state licensing bill, regulating the sale of three-point-two beer, passed by the legislature and, at this writing, up to the governor for signature, puts a different aspect on the local election of May 15. The only question that Carmel may determine by ballot is whether or not the beer may be sold at all within its corporate limits.

Should the answer by "Yes," then it must be sold under state regulations. Licenses locally must be granted for the sales in original, unbroken packages, for use off the premises, at ten dollars a year; and to restaurants, coffee houses, hotels and cafes, to be drunk with meals served, at fifty dollars a year. Any bona fide applicant, unless he may have at some time been convicted of a felony, can get a license.

The city council will have little to say in determining restrictions or regulations. A sandwich, even a pretzel, may become a legal meal, and a bar with stools before it may be classed by the law as a lunch counter.

There has been a strong sentiment in Carmel favoring the sale of bottled beer by grocery stores, more for the purpose of protecting their regular trade than because it was felt that the beer sale would be of importance. Just how the state regulations, opening up the sales on the premises so widely, will affect the result in the coming election is problematical. Friends of the beer movement here are themselves wondering at the effect upon Carmel's vote. It is certain that a large percentage of the electors of the town will cast ballots at the polls election day, and the determination will be by a heavy vote.

PSYCHOLOGICALLY SPEAKING

Argyll Campbell's suggested campaign to sell Carmel to the desirables in order to save it from an expected influx of commercialists, brought here by the Carmel-San Simeon highway's building, has reopened the whole subject of city advertising, and renewed the debate of whether any form of advertising will or will not help Carmel. Coincidentally, but quite apropos, the talk given by a promoter from the southland at the Carmel Theatre last Monday afternoon, gave impetus to the controversy.

There are plenty of people still left in Carmel who will say that any form of publicity of an advertising nature will be fatal to the town's growth and prosperity. Some of these recall when, a number of years ago, Monterey Peninsula, Incorporated, was organized to advertise the "Circle of Enchantment," a mass meeting of Carmel residents passed a resolution calling upon the city council to enjoin, by law, the organization from using the village name in its projected advertising campaign. It was felt then that our growth and prosperity depended upon a dignified reticence to all our advantages.

A rather recent home builder in Carmel cites his own experience. He lived in the middle west, had retired, and was looking for a permanent home among happy surroundings. He had heard of Carmel, and was thinking of it, but intended to first visit Florida, and look over its possibilities. Then came to him, from a town in that state, an invitation to become one of its residents.

According to the prospectus, this town was carefully selecting its future residents, and his name had been taken from "Who's Who" as one who would merit the approval of the town. The advantages of a hand-picked town, that gave such though to its future, was pointed out. There would be writers, artists, and the elite of the professions there. And the recipient of that invitation gave up his projected visit to Florida, and began a prompt journey to Carmel.

The psychological reaction to any form of advertising of a town is to commercialize it in the mind of the reader. Advertising popularizes a product, and so makes sales; but it will not give that dignity and isolation that many home-builders ask for in the selection of a town in which to locate.

VERSE

By Dawn's red ladder,
I went down
From a quiet hill,
To a market town.

At mid-day stood,
In a public square,
To hear what wisdom,
Men spoke there.

Yet, this evening,
All I know,
Is a wild quiet hill
Where berries grow.

Strawberries mothered,
By a white flower,
Sired by a bee,
In a green bower.

Nursed by the ground,
Warmed of the light,
Holding the dew
In their hand, all night.

Living their season,
Asking not why,
Berries shall sweeten,
And redden, and die.

Trustfully growing,
Having no fear,
That Earth refuses jewels
To the hills, next year.

And if I keep hoping,
May I not be,
At last, some Spring,
A strawberry?

People Talked About

Says the San Francisco Examiner of the exhibit of Henrietta Shore:

Henrietta Shore of Carmel-by-the-Sea, who is among the best known of California artists, will have an exhibition of her drawings and prints in the M. H. de Young Memorial Museum through May 7. Miss Shore's work in this field constitutes among her most forceful and important productions. She is, of course, noted for her paintings and watercolor in oil.

The artist is a native of Toronto, Canada, and commenced active study in drawing and painting at the age of fifteen. Her first instructor was Laura Muntz of Toronto, but after a few years she came to the United States to study at the old New York School of Art under Robert Henri, William Chase, and Kenneth Hayes-Miller. Among her fellow students were Rockwell Kent, George Bellows, Guy du Bois, Carl Sprinchorn, etc.

Miss Shore is represented in the National Gallery of Canada by a painting entitled "Negro Woman and Children." In 1920 she had a one-man show at a prominent New York gallery and three years later held a large retrospective exhibition in New York and at Worcester Art Museum. She has shown her work at leading exhibitions in all important cities in this country and in Canada as well as in London, Paris and Liverpool. She is one of the founders of the New York Society of Women Artists, and also of the Los Angeles Modern Art Society. She returned to California from New York in 1925 and spent six months in Mexico in 1927-28. Her work has received a large number of awards and she has been a member of many art organizations.

Mabel Dodge Luhan has a new book out—"Intimate Memories," published by Harcourt Brace. Time, the Weekly Newsmagazine, greets it rather ironically, saying:

Mabel Ganson Evans Dodge Sterne Luhan is one of those U.S. women who is conscious of having exerted a considerable influence, not counting her husbands. During her second marriage (to Edwin Dodge, Boston architect) her salon in Florence was famed throughout Europe. "Everybody" in the art world visited her, from Gertrude Stein to Eleonora Duse. In Manhattan she was a hospitable hostess to Lincoln Steffens, the late John Reed, Walter Lippmann, Emma Goldman, Carl Van Vechten, Robert Edmond Jones. She was largely responsible for the art exhibition which featured the famed cubist A Nude Descending the Staircase. Her fourth husband and current husband, full-blooded Taos Indian Tony Luhan, she met when he was acting as model for her third, Painter Maurice Sterne.

Unlike Proust's, Authoress Luhan's diving memory fails to bring up pearls; but it is not for lack of trying, and she is sure they are there. Her natural sympathy with people, she says, "has caused me many inward conflicts, and it has always drawn people to me in the same degree that I flowed out to them and identified myself with them, and it has always made people want to kiss me, to manifest an actual nearness and union, finding it comforting and consolatory. It is the only genius I have ever had but it has been enough, and these pages are given to recording its progress." Her own account, however, makes herself out an unextraordinary only child. Her parents got along badly. Her father used to slam the front door so much, in fact, that her mother finally attached a harp-like arangement to it which transmuted a bang into gently dying tinkles.

From some references to her "Memories in Lorenzo in Taos," readers might have supposed that Authoress Luhan's autobiographical purpose was to rip off the veils and drawers of Victorian hypocrisy. But very little is removed in this first act.

The Devil Walks

By Herbert Cerwin

John Catlin, Carmel's famous blacksmith mayor, might not have had a suitable pair of trousers to wear when he declined to represent the village at a recent League of Municipalities convention, but he will be well costumed when he attends the Quatr'z Arts ball tomorrow night at Del Monte.

At least so it appeared this week, as Councilman Herbert Heron, one of the sponsors of the ball, completed arrangements to do "justice to hizzonor."

Heron, following a conference with Catlin on what the well dressed mayor should wear, obtained half a dozen costumes for the village's chief executive to try on. But Catlin hasn't decided on which he will wear to make his official public appearance.

* * *

Perhaps, from the looks of things, Catlin shouldn't wear any pants at all.

* * *

How we would like to see Carmel's elite dressed at the ball:

Stephen Allen Reynolds in an old-fashioned night gown.

Herbert Heron as "Macaire."

Bob Ritchie in Boy Scout shorts.

William Overstreet as a Knight of the Black Garter.

Daisy Bostick as Lady Godiva.

Lincoln Steffens as Lady Godiva's assistant.

Helen Ware as "Little Buttercup."

John B. Jordan dressed in a Greek tunic.

George Wood as a member of the nudist colony.

* * *

Indications are that the Quatr'z Arts will be a two gallon affair.

* * *

Edward Berwick, who lived in Carmel valley when there was no Carmel, recalls the day Robert Louis Stevenson and Joe Strong came to his home in Pacific Grove looking for lodgings.

"What do you do for a living?" Berwick asked, looking at the sickly Stevenson.

"Oh, I sling ink," said R. L. S., and accepted Berwick's hospitality by sleeping in the barn.

Christian Science Churches

"Everlasting Punishment" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, April 30, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Golden Text will be: "Is not destruction to the wicked? and a strange punishment to the workers of iniquity?" (Job 31:3). Other Bible citations will include: "For the Lord knoweth the way of the righteous: but the way of the ungodly shall perish" (Ps. 1:6).

The Lesson-Sermon also will include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Through the wholesome chastisements of Love, we are helped onward in the march towards righteousness, peace, and purity, which are the landmarks of Science. The true idea of God gives the true understanding of Life and Love, robs the grave of victory, takes away all sin and the delusion that there are other minds, and destroys mortality" (p. 323).

Newberry's Authentic Autobiography

XL

A. M. Allen of Point Lobos took me to church that Sunday morning in his car. He was an elder in the Monterey Presbyterian church, and I would sit in the family pew, and have their support in this initiation. I was thankful not to be alone in a crisis.

The services were reminiscent of my childhood, when I had attended the Presbyterian church in Coldwater occasionally. There had not been great changes in two score years. I had expected to need to keep an anxious eye upon others so as not to be gauche, but there was no ritual. The old hymns were known to me, and had evidently been selected for the occasion; they were militant.

During the sermon, I wondered again as to the questions that would be put me, and what answers I would have to give to get by. If the minister went too deeply into the tenets of Presbyterianism, I was sunk. I had looked up the creed.

A hymn after the sermon, then the minister's voice asking Perry Newberry to step forward. That was I. My knees knocked against the pew and each other as I got them under me. I managed somehow to make my way and stand before him. He read from a little book, a question that I could hardly hear because of my nervousness. It was a long question, divided into sections by his reading. I had forgotten the first of it before he came to its end. I would be dumb absolutely when my turn came to answer.

His voice paused. I gulped. The voice came again to rescue me. It said,

"The answer is 'Yes'."

"Yes," I repeated mechanically. Came a second question, ending the same way with the cue, "The answer is 'Yes'."

Another question, perhaps two, with the answers indicated. Then the minister asked the congregation if there was any reason that I be not admitted to the church. There seemed no objections. He said that I was now a member of the church, and my nervousness was suddenly all gone. I thanked him, and turned to the congregation and thanked them. It had been, it seemed to me, a wonderful thing for that church to do for a perfect stranger. I told them so.

I spoke for perhaps fifteen or twenty minutes, expressing my appreciation and gratitude in fitting terms. Then I walked back to the pew to get a look from Allen that I didn't understand. It was only after we had left the church that he told me that ordinarily the minister did all the talking in such affairs. My speech had been unusual to say the very least.

I left Carmel for the front line in France on the third of July, 1918. In my trunk were socks, sweaters, wristlets, mittens, caps and other things that I never learned the use of, knitted by kindly women of Carmel who either knew me, or knew that I was going to the wars. I had not waited for orders to come to report at San Francisco Y-headquarters, and I was half way across the continent when a telegram to Carmel instructed me not to make any move at present; no more men would be sent from California for a time. Bertha, opening it, did not think it necessary to relay it to me. It was after I came home that I knew how close I came to never going.

I am not going to tell in this autobiography of my year in the A.E.F. as Y-secretary or cookie peddler. For the part of the time that I was at the front in war, it was the most wonderful experience of a vicarious lifetime. I was with an artillery outfit, field pieces, the French 75s, horse-drawn, and was first on the Vesle, then in the Argonne. The armistice found us so close to the border that we might have dropped shells into Germany next day.

I came back in the summer of 1919, and our division, the 77th., was demobbed at New York. Feeling certain that I had material for unlimited fiction stories of the war, I made the rounds of the magazines whose editors I knew through correspondence. One and all told me the same thing, to go back home and write anything else in the world but war tales.

"Westerns and mystery stories are the most salable stuff right now," they said. "As for the war, it is going to be a long time before anyone will care to read about it in fact or fiction. Forget it."

Except for a boys' book, "Forward Ho," which I illustrated with sketches some of which I had made while in France, that was exactly what I did. I turned my hand to detective fiction, put on an occasional pageant or play, built a house now and then, and let the years slip comfortably by. Then, one day as I was overseeing the interior finishing of a place I was building in Hatton Fields, Allan Griffin came to make me a proposition to take a partnership interest and the editorship of the Carmel Pine Cone.

"That's the last thing in the world I would expect to do," I said.

"Then that's the thing you'll want to do," Griffin grinned. "We must take it over at once. When can you begin?"

"O, well! I'll be at the office tomorrow morning," I replied.

Carmel Physicians Attend Convention

A number of Carmel physicians have attended this week the state medical association convention at Hotel Del Monte which brought some 1000 doctors to the peninsula.

Monterey county was officially represented by Dr. R. A. Kocher as a delegate to the convention. Mrs. Wilson Davidson assisted by the wives of several other local physicians was chairman of the committee which took the visitors on a tour of Carmel.

Many of the visiting physicians had cottages in Carmel or registered at local hotels

Miss Mary Wheldon visited friends at San Jose during the past weekend.

Carmel To Vote on Single Beer Proposition May 15th

Will 3.2 per cent beer with its alleged intoxicating taste, be served in Carmel?

Voters will go to the polls on May 15 to definitely decide this issue that is revolutionary so far as Carmel is concerned. There will be only one proposition on the ballot:

Shall Carmel sell beer under city and state regulations?

A majority vote in favor of beer, will of course mean that the beverage will be sold in the village. A vote against the measure will be taken as the decision of the people that Carmel should continue to be dry.

It had been originally planned by the city council to have three propositions. The first to determine whether beer should be sold at all; the second whether it should be sold in grocery stores alone and the third whether it should be served in restaurants.

Because of the recent passage of a state bill which takes actual control of the sale of beer from the hands of a municipality, voters will be able only to cast a ballot on the single proposition.

If Carmel goes wet, the full control of sale of beer is in the hands of the state. Restaurants, soft drink parlors, grocery stores and others who receive licenses will have permission to sell the beer.

Some doubt, however, as to the legality of the beer bill has been cast by City Attorney Argyll Campbell, who said that he could not feel that the measure was constitutional.

"The state constitution," Campbell claims, "gives a municipality local option to handle its own police affairs. I cannot see how this bill is in harmony with the provisions of the constitution."

In the meantime, the wets and the drys of Carmel are forming into definite groups to fight for and against the sale of beer here. Present indications point to a record vote on May 15. If Carmel goes wet, it will be the first time in the history of the village that an alcoholic beverage is sold with official approval of the council.

Carmel Resident Grants Land for New Highway

Through the co-operation of a Carmel resident, the barrier which for many years has kept the general public from enjoying beaches of Monterey bay between here and Watsonville was broken this week when the new road to Indian harbor was dedicated.

The road leaves the Monterey-Castroville highway about six miles north of Monterey. Opening of the new road marks the successful termination of many years' effort to provide the public with free and easy access to the beach. Land for the right of way was given by Norman T. Reynolds of Carmel, owner of the property adjoining the road.

Miss Gretchen Schoeninger visited her sister in Los Angeles for the weekend.

VOTE FOR BEER

At the Special Election to be held here Monday, May 15th

FOLLOW THIS SERIES OF FOUR ARTICLES EXPLAINING ADVANTAGES OF BEER

ARTICLE NUMBER 2

Let us begin this article by quoting from what Chief of Police George Griffin of Salinas had to say after beer had been legal in Salinas for some time. The remarks made at a meeting of the Salinas Exchange Club.

"The return of beer has caused no disturbance to the peace and good conduct of Salinas. In fact, drunkenness has decreased and we have had fewer arrests for disorderly conduct than before beer's return."

Griffin further asserted that in his opinion, the fewer the prohibitions placed upon beer the more sensible will be the consumption by the public. "Contrary to the fears of many that the return of beer would result in an alcoholic orgy, the city of Salinas has been unusually quiet and orderly since April 7th and cases of drunkenness few and far between," Griffin went on.

This is the first reliable statement available from official police sources within the near environs of Carmel, yet it should be a very reliable report, since Salinas is noted for its efficient police service.

Carmelites who want beer are going to have beer. We have already approved an amendment to our local liquor laws which permits possession and transportation of beer. The only remaining question is, shall we allow our local merchant to make his legitimate profit from the sale of beer, or shall we force our people to throw beer profits solely into the hands of over-the-hill merchants.

A large quantity of beer on an empty stomach, might result in a light case of intoxication among people who have been unused to drinking alcoholic beverages. Even in such a case, dangerous intoxication could not result. Too, State and County regulations permit sale of beer on draught only with food, and bottled beer sold without food, must be taken home. It would be impossible for beer to cause any disorder, or any other undesirable conduct among our citizens. Most cases of drunkenness in the State of California since the advent of beer, have been directly traceable to whiskey, gin, or other strong drink, and when beer has entered in, it has been used only as a "chaser."

Next week we will give you more valuable data and opinion as to why the legalization of beer sales in Carmel is just and right.
